HARLESTON MERCURY 27.8.15

Black and white is the key to art

An eye-catching display of black and white photographs is now on display at Blacksmiths Cottage Nursery at Langmere, near Dickleburgh.

The Suffolk Monochrome Group is a group of highly experienced photographers whose aim is to enjoy and promote the art of monochrome photography, in all its various forms.

The objective of the group is to foster the appreciation of monochrome photographs and to encourage the development of this branch of photographic art within the group membership.

The group's aim is the creation of quality monochrome images, by any of the photographic processes available and that the experienced members will freely pass on their knowledge, techniques and inspiration to the less experienced in the group.

A spokesman for Suffolk Monochrome Group said: "We have since our formation held a number of exhibitions in East Anglia of our work, the main venues being Wingfield Barns in Suffolk and the Mercury Theatre at Colchester.

"The group are proud to be holding an exhibition of their work in the lecture room at Blacksmiths Cottage Nursery

"This is the second time we have exhibited at this venue and are excited about this chance to show photographs to the wider audience who are visitors to the nursery.

"The subject matter of the images on display is varied including landscapes, portraiture, abstract as well as images of other genres.

"The majority of the images have not been exhibited before."

The Suffolk Monochrome Group exhibition runs until November 1 and is open 10am until 5pm, Wednesday to Sunday.

Admission to the black and white exhibition is free.

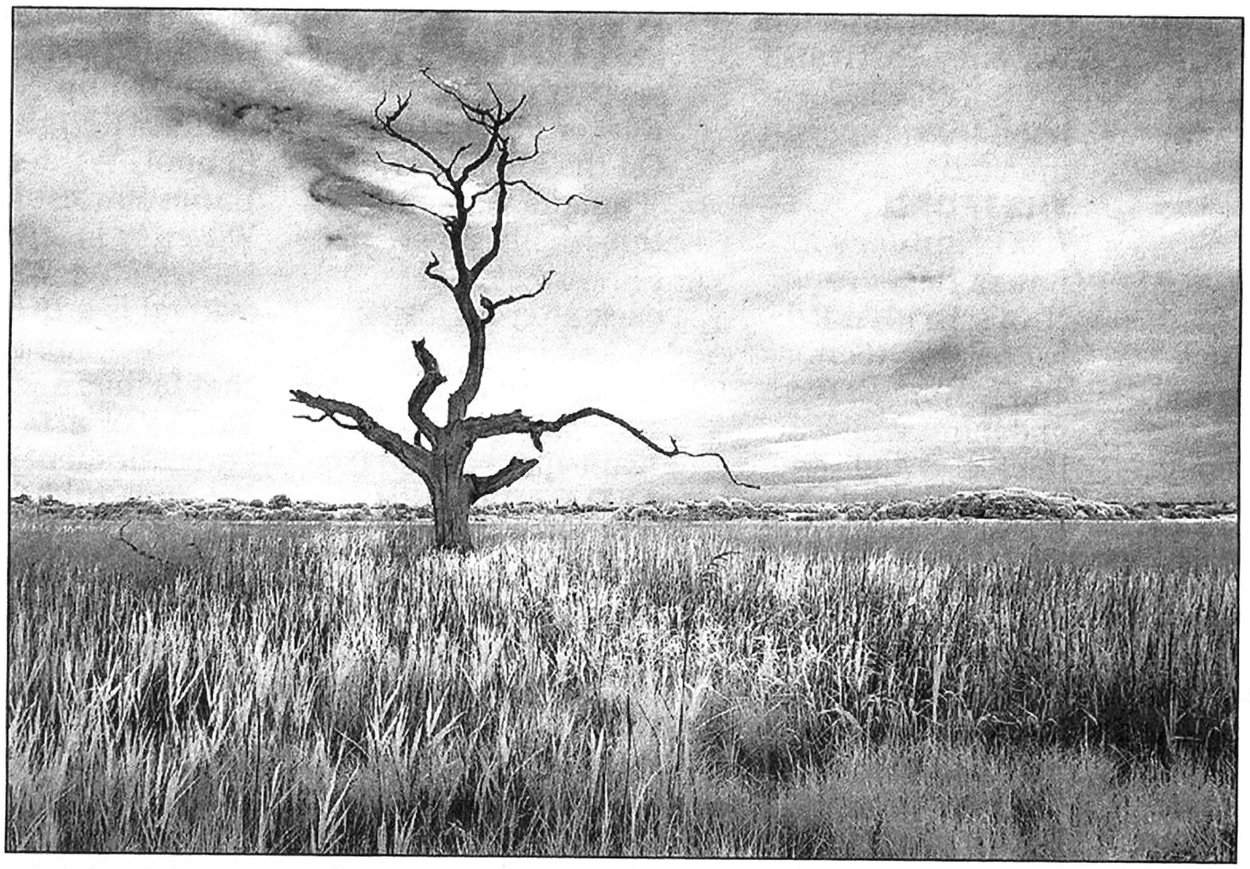

EXHIBIT: Dead Tree and Reeds - Iken Cliffs by Barry Freeman